Disaster Preparedness Plans Told by Red Cross

A complete dryrun illustration of the Hancock County Disaster Committee's functions was presented by Dave McDonald, disaster chairman for the Hancock County chapter, American Red Cross, before the board of supervisors Tuesday morning.

Miss Edna Mattox, South-eastern director of Red Cross disaster service who was scheduled to appear, was unable to attend because of serious illness in her family.

McDonald told the board and attending committee members that the committee would be prepared to function in any type of disaster or natural catastrophe such as a tornado, fire, or explosion.

He said that the Red Cross does not provide a rescue or warning service. Storm warnings are given by the Civil Defense and the local law enforcement officials. Sound trucks will spread warnings to the local communities, he said.

The first thing the committee does is to alert its area chairman.

Should a hurricane be realized, he said, shelters will be opened at Gulfview, Waveland, Valena C. Jones and Bay High Schools.

He asked the chairmen to inform the people in their area that if they bring children or those who need drugs and medicine, they will have to furnish their own. The Red Cross will furnish the minimum food: coffee, bread, and milk. He also added that the shelters could not furnish pillows and blankets.

The two-year-old grandson of Mr. and Mrs. C. Drury Blair of 109 Union St., was fatally injured Friday afternoon in Kenwood, Md., when a car struck him while his father, Clay D. Blair Jr., was in Los Angeles, Calif., on assignment as an associate editor of Saturday Evening Post.

The child, Joseph Devereaux Blair, was struck in front of the family home in Kenwood while his mother was burning leaves only 100 feet from the accident scene.

The victim, who suffered from multiple rib fractures, a broken arm and head injuries, died about 1:45 p.m. en route to a nearby hospital in an ambulance. Driver of the car was Mrs. Louis A. Pinck, 68, of Bethesda, Md., who told police she heard a strange noise as she passed the Blair home and stopped, thinking she had a flat tire. Looking back she saw the mother pick up the child and run toward her house.

The grandparents have left Bay St. Louis for Kenwood to attend the funeral services. Mrs. Blair is known locally for her active participation in Little Theater work, where she is known to audiences as Mary Louise Blair.

The infant's mother is the niece of James P. Devereaux, Republican candidate for governor of Maryland next fall.

If the hurricane strikes, the area chairman must survey their area and give a precise report of the extent of damage so that McDonald can report the damage to the main office in Atlanta. This office must have an extent of damage report before they are able to send any supplies.

He said that the people should return to their homes, if possible, after the storm, but that the shelters can provide housing for an extended time. The shelters could be combined into one main center, he added.

Medical and nursing attention would be provided by Hancock County Hospital and an overflow place like Bay High School gymnasium if needed.

The family service chairman would handle the overflow of telegrams and telephone calls coming into the disaster area.

The local committee would receive the aid and supervision of specialized Red Cross workers within several days after the disaster.

McDonald said purchase and supply chairman Milton Phillips and food chairman Joe Schaff would be notified first of the approaching storm. Schaff would provide food for the people in the shelter. If shelters were open for more than a one night stand, the canteen chairman is to request additional supplies.

Mrs. O. W. Delph, executive secretary of the Hancock County chapter, said at least five families must be involved in an incident before the Red Cross could declare it as disaster and come to their aid.

Girl Scouts to Raise New Flag On July Fourth

Three intermediate Girl Scouts from Bay St. Louis neighborhood will raise the flag in front of Hancock County Courthouse at 9 a.m. July 4, in honor especially of the 49th state, Alaska. The girls will be named shortly.

Norman Fayard is chairman of the ceremony, which is being directed by American Legion and its auxiliary. Girl Scouts and Brownies from all local troops will take part in the ceremony here.

The same ceremony will be conducted all over the nation at that hour, including in Colorado Springs, Colo., where an Alaskan Girl Scout will raise the flag. Boy Scouts, who traditionally raise the flag on July 4, and Cub Scouts, also are expected to observe the event.

Rally Set July 2 At Logtown School

A political rally is scheduled at 4 p.m. July 2 on the grounds of Logtown School under the auspices of the Parent-Teacher Association and the local chapter of the Disabled American Veterans.

Proceeds will go for the purchase of a chain link fence for the school yard. All candidates are invited to speak at a fried chicken supper. Hot dogs, pie and cake will be served.

Red Cross Needs Instructors For Water Safety Class

American Red Cross certified instructors to conduct water safety classes this summer are being sought by the Hancock County chapter, according to Mrs. Octave Delph, director.

She is asking them to call HO7-4071 or HO7-5575. The chapter has made arrangements to use the Camp Onward pool, only major filtered one in the county, to hold water safety classes and lack of anyone to teach is the sole barrier to offering the instruction.

The same problem prevailed last summer, Mrs. Delph said, emphasizing the seriousness of the matter with so large a portion of the county bordering on the water.

County Board Considers Sale of Vacated Schools

Outright sale of four school plants no longer needed for classroom purposes with the opening of the new North Central High School came under consideration by the Hancock County Board of Education at a recessed meeting Saturday.

The suggestion was advanced by Trustee S. P. Powell who observed that if feasible, the board might be better off to sell the property and use the money to provide teachers living quarters elsewhere.

The board has been thinking in terms of conveying them for use by civic and church organizations, retaining the part of the premises now used for teachers' apartments.

Possibility of a revision of this policy came up when a delegation from the newly formed Sellers Community Center Organization sought custody of the Sellers School, Roland Ladner, president of the group, and Tommy Shaw, secretary, disclosed they hoped to lease parts of the property, which includes about 50 acres, to prospective industries. Ladner said the center wants to use the gym and adjoining classrooms for youth and adult recreation in the community.

Temporary custody of that property and the cafeteria was granted to the organization with D. J. Martin, vocational teacher who is serving as Sellers custodian, to make a complete inspection first.

Superintendent E. E. Breland told the board that when sold, the property must be designated for commercial uses to a group or the community, under House Bill No. 273, section 3, of the General Laws of the State of Miss.

When Powell advanced his sale idea, Breland first contended ownership of the schools would have to revert back to the board of supervisors, which would have to advertise for bids, if the school board says that the property isn't needed for a school anymore.

But, according to the board's interpretation of the Miss. Bill No. 273, the school board could sell the property for commercial uses.

The board extended its prohibition on political rallies on school property to the grounds of North Central, noting that it is trying to beautify the campus and has just purchased grass seed for it. The question arose when Gerald Price, candidate for sheriff, asked to use the North Central grounds.

The board reviewed its statement passed at the June 6 meeting saying that buildings of the schools can only be used by the school and school organizations for school related functions, but the grounds can be used by any group with the permission of the caretaker. This applies to the Leetown school.

Discussion arose over the two bids submitted by private contractors for Route 5 to North Central School. The bids made were Roy Koennen $269, and Lawrence J. Ladner, $265.

The board's notice to bidders stated that a full description of the route may be obtained in the superintendent's office and that no bid would be considered where a bus is older than a 1956 model.

Louis Necaise questioned the route stops named in Ladner's bid. He said that several were not mentioned. Breland replied that he had felt that there was no need to be so explicit in the route description as to name each stop on the route, but to give a general picture of it.

Necaise moved that the route be awarded to Koennen, who had run the route and knew all the stops, but withdrew that in favor of a motion by Charles Murphy for further consideration.

The board reviewed a letter to Breland from Mrs. Margaret H. Shadoin of the Hancock Insurance Agency concerning the new insurance coverage of its

Green Appointed To Legion Post

J. F. (Polly) Green, member of Clement R. Bontemps Post 139, American Legion, has been appointed assistant sergeant at arms for the 41st annual national convention of the Legion in Minneapolis-St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 24-27. He is sergeant at arms of the Mississippi department.

Green, whose appointment was received from national Commander Preston J. Moore, says he is not sure of being able to accept because of his obligation as a temporary inspector for the state scales Motor Vehicle Controller office here.

There were no bids on miscellaneous office furniture which had been advertised for, Mayor John Scattee expressed surprise that no one had bid on the furniture.

Council awarded the contract for air conditioning the lower floor of City Hall to Stevenson Radio and Electric Co., which had bid $480 on installation of five-ton units when those prices were received June 15.

Plans for the renovation of the upstairs of City Hall were discussed. Commissioner J. Cyril Glover said that Fred Wagner of Oubre and Wagner, New Orleans architects, had surveyed the building and plans are being made to remodel and air condition the upper floor.

Also discussed were the requirements of air conditioning. It was decided that four one-ton units would take care of the upstairs. Council adjourned until its next regular meeting July 6.

Reopening of the Highway Drive-In Theater on U. S. 90 is set tentatively for July 4 according to new operators Claude S. Bourgeois and Edgar G. Doerr of B and D Theaters on the Gulf Coast and in Arabi, La. The theater was leased to them this week by Mr. and Mrs. Russell Elliott and Mr. and Mrs. Norman Benigno of Highway Drive-In Theater Corp.

Bourgeois, a former Bay St. Louis resident now living in Biloxi, said complete modernization of the screen and projection equipment, including installation of cinemascope facilities, is planned. A remodeled concession stand will offer a wide variety of foods, with car service available.

An estimated 15 persons, including 14 Hancock Countymen, will be employed by the new operation. Harold Saucier already has been hired as concession manager.

The Shack Bar, a new restaurant at Hancock and Sycamore Streets, has been opened by Horace Greedy Kirkpatrick. Kirkpatrick plans to be open from 7 a.m. to 9 p.m.

J. and N. Tammie and Son, Contractors, has been awarded a local office in Waveland on Bay Toward as agent.

The members agreed to wait until the next meeting when trustees, Alton Keller and Attorney Walter James Phillips would be present.

Separate electric meters will be installed at the old Kiln school so that separate payments could be made by the Catholic Church, which has been given charge of the main building, and the teachers living in the homes.

The board directed that Mrs. C. C. McDonald, chairman, and Breland should have Architect Charles Preffer, make preliminary sketches for additional classrooms on the Gulfview School and report at the next meeting.

Purchase of two cattle gaps and two gates for North Central School was authorized, subject to approval by Phillips. The 4 by 12 metal gates at $57 apiece and the cattle gaps at $265 apiece were purchased from Pat Lee's Shop at Piquette. The gaps and gates have not yet been installed.

On the recommendation of North Central Superintendent R. E. Webb, Mrs. Althea Landrum of Lumberton and Taft Shaw, recently teaching in Alabama, were elected to fill vacancies on the faculty there.

The board adjourned until 3 p.m. July 6.

Safety, Water Style

This paper has frequently spoken out concerning traffic safety on our highways. Harped on the point, some believe. Another important safety item is water safety, doubly important to any coast area, particularly one like ours, that appeals to summer residents and has a resort background.

The Red Cross has made all necessary arrangements for swimming instruction, including the use of the only major filtered pool in the county, and is stymied. No qualified instructors.

One individual with a Red Cross Instructors Certificate, willing to give his or her time, could remove the problem and Hancock County children would get an opportunity to learn to save their and, perhaps, other's lives. Five persons with Senior Life Saving Certificates, willing to give of their time, would enable the local chapter to get an instructor to train them for an instructor's certificate.

Please, someone or ones, help.

We're Sorry, But!

Even though a newcomer might have a less prejudiced view than old-timers, this editor had hoped to stay out of local politics this year at least. Unfortunately, such an easy course doesn't seem open.

At least one local and one semi-local candidate are trying to use the Echo as a whipping post in their efforts to fool the voters. If only for that reason, and there are other traditional ones, the Echo will subsequently print its view as to each candidate who appears to have a chance of winning or getting into a second primary.

Don't worry, Flip, Lip, Skip or whatever your name is, we won't bother with you. You don't have a chance.

Money Is Serious

This week Rep. William M. Colmer's column depicts a gloomy picture concerning the financing of the United States Government. Our information generally agrees with that of Rep. Colmer. We would like to add that the seriousness of the situation has been obvious to any interested person for about a year. To the financially uninitiated when the U. S. dollar, for years sought by foreign investors and governments, about a year ago started being sold in order for these persons to buy pounds sterling, the sign should have been clear.

Hard business men in friendly countries have lost their confidence in the financial program of the United States. It's serious.

Plain old good citizenship apparently doesn't appeal to many Hancock Countians. One of our better organizations training the young in good citizenship, as well as many other things, is the Girl Scouts and in this county at a cost of less than four dollars a year. So far the people of Hancock County have been willing to contribute one-fourth of their need. For shame.

Some 90,000 Mississippi drivers' licenses expire June 30. Don't let it be yours.

Congressional Sidelights

By Rep. WILLIAM M. COLMER

The House last Friday passed a bill raising the debt limitation to $295 billion by a vote of 255 to 117. The previous limitation on the national debt was $288 billion (283 billion permanent and 5 billion temporary). The President had requested that the permanent limit be increased to $288 billion and an additional temporary increase for the period ending June 30, 1960, of $7 billion. The House increased the permanent ceiling to $285 billion, with a $10 billion temporary increase. Thus, the House gave its approval to the total increase of $295 billion.

It is interesting to note in this connection that this is the third increase in the ceiling on the national debt in the past 16 months.

The Congress on Feb. 26, 1958, increased the debt limit from $275 to $280 billion. On Sept. 2, 1958, it increased the ceiling to $288 billion.

This was due to the fact that a deficit of approximately $13 billion occurred in the past fiscal year.

When we consider that on Sept. 24, 1917, (the beginning of World War I), the national debt was approximately $7 1/2 billion and that at the end of that war, the debt was only $17 billion, we get some idea of the alarming rate at which the national debt has increased.

But three years later, on Nov. 20, 1921, that debt had been cut back to $7 1/2 billion.

In 1942, after some eight years of the New Deal, the debt had reached $125 billion.

In 1946, at the end of World War II, that figure had reached the gargantuan proportion of $275 billion. And since that time, the debt has continued to mount to its present status.

I am sure that the people of this country have finally awakened to the seriousness of our fiscal condition. In fact, I think they arrived at the realization of the situation before the politicians did. That realization is now being reflected in the action of the political spenders to some degree. And, much lip service and many remedies are being offered to stop deficit spending, maintain a balance budget, and some of the spenders are even suggesting plans for retiring the national debt.

There is but one way to prevent the continued upward spiral of the national debt and the evil of inflation. That is simply to stop authorizing, appropriating, and spending. Some of us who have been advocating and practicing this, and thus incurring the displeasure of our party leadership, now feel that the party leaders themselves have realized that retrenchment and economy rather than deficit spending is good politics.

Letters To the Editor

Editor, Sea Coast Echo:

We are sorry that you feel that the Louisville and Nashville Railroad is "frivolous and harassing" as indicated in your editorial of June 4. Actually all we are trying to do in our request for increased commuter fares is to comply with the suggestions handed down by the Interstate Commerce Commission, Division 4, which reads in part as follows:

"If the commuter passenger fares had been at the same level as the bus fares, we believe the use of the trains by the public would not have been less than they were in recent years, and the added revenues by the higher fares would have been reflected in lower deficits."

The proposed increase in commuter fares would bring such fares up to the same level as

WHERE WILL YOUR CHILDREN LIVE IN 1973?

What kind of homes will your children have twenty years from now? Mississippi Power Company has started thinking about it -- AND GETTING READY FOR THEM.

Part of the answer can be found in the new electric appliances still in the early stages of development.

There will be new ways of heating and cooling homes with the help of electricity. Glareless lighting will come on automatically as darkness falls.

Most families will have electric kitchen equipment in units which can be arranged in different ways. They will be able to talk electronically to any room in their homes. And your children will need many times as much electricity as you use today.

To supply this extra electricity, Mississippi Power Company is carrying forward a tremendous expansion program. Our generating capacity for example has more than doubled since 1950, and it will be over three times as great by the end of 1960. The means, of course, that you and your family are using more electricity in many different ways. It means that you are living better electrically.

Your children's homes, like the homes of today, will be served with a plentiful supply of long-range electricity. And it will be available whenever they need it.

COLOR TELEVISION. There will be almost as many sets in 1973 as there are radios today. That means most homes will have several units.

HOME CONTROL. Central electric "heart of the home" will control heating, cooling, lighting, communications -- maybe even windows.

LIGHT-CONDITIONING. This includes built-in special fixtures for lighting effects indoors and out, and lighting panels that glow.

THE HOMES OF TOMORROW, LIKE THE HOMES OF TODAY, WILL BE SERVED WELL.

Miss Breath, Mr. Balch Exchange Wedding Vows

Miss Rita Lynda Breath and John Burchard Balch exchanged wedding vows at noon Saturday at Christ Episcopal Church. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Albert Breath Jr. of 616 N. Beach Blvd. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Vickroy Balch of Shaker Heights, Ohio.

The Rev. Charles R. Johnson performed the double-ring ceremony before an altar banked with white gladioli, stock and majestic daisies arranged in tall altar vases and in an organ top covering. Baskets of white flowers were at the foot of the altar.

Mr. Breath escorted his daughter, who wore a bouffant gown of white imported Chantilly lace and nylon tulle, styled with lace bodice and cap sleeves and lace appliques on the skirt. Lace wreaths bordered the head and train. Her pearl-studded lace cap held a fingertip illusion veil. She carried a Breath family heirloom silver covered Book of Common Prayer with a cascade bouquet of Pyralisopsis orchids. Another heirloom Book belonging to the Balch family was read by the officiating minister.

The bride was attended by her sisters, Miss Sue Breath, as maid of honor, and Mrs. Donald S. Coffey of Golden, Colo., as matron of honor. Other attendants included Miss Suzanne Snider of New Orleans and Mrs. William Williamson of Montgomery, Ala. Flower girls were Ann and Lyle Prescott of Grosse Pointe, Mich., nieces of the groom.

The attendants were costumed in full-skirted gowns of mint green silk, styled with square necklines and overlapping pleats at the waistline. Matching silk bandeaux, entwined with English ivy and bouquets of white fleur-d'amour and English ivy accented their gowns.

Dainty white frocks of organza with mint green silk sashes were worn by the flower girls. They carried white baskets filled with fleur-d'amour blossoms.

The groom's father served as best man. Groomsmen included Thomas V. Balch Jr. of Houston, Tex., brother of the groom; Louis A. Rogers of Hattiesburg, uncle of the bride, and Mr. Coffey.

White gladioli, pom-poms, chrysanthemums and majestic daisies were in milk glass containers throughout the reception at the ceremony. Mrs. Breath received guests in a white linen dress embroidered with leaves in shades of light green and dusty rose. Her corsage of cymbidium orchids was shaded from cerise to brown.

The groom's mother chose a coffee-colored linen sheath with matching organza yoke. Her cymbidium orchids were green.

Cutting the pale pink, tiered wedding cake were Mrs. Rogers and Mrs. Roger M. Boh, both aunts of the bride. A cloth of white Italian linen drawn work covered the cake table. Other aunts, Mrs. W. Douglas Bourgeois, Mrs. Josie B. Olson and

Garden of Month Judging Planned

Bay-Waveland Garden Club will continue to select a garden of the month during the summer, according to Mrs. Joseph Scharf, project chairman, who is asking persons to call her and enter their gardens in the competition. Gardens will be judged between July 1 and 4.

Mrs. Dan E. Bourgeois, all of Gulfport, poured punch from silver bowls at each end of the oval table.

The bride's traveling dress was an off-white raw silk sheath and matching jacket which she complemented with old gold colored accessories. The couple spent a short time on the Gulf Coast before embarking up the Jordan River in a houseboat for the remainder of their wedding trip.

Mrs. Balch was graduated this month from Mississippi Southern College.

The groom has accepted a position on the faculty of the Norfolk, Va., division of the College of William and Mary as an assistant professor of psychology this fall. A graduate of University School at Cleveland, Ohio and Yale University at New Haven, Conn., he is completing requirements for a master of arts degree at Mississippi Southern.

They will be at Hattiesburg until Aug. 2 when they will leave to spend a month in Cleveland before settling in Norfolk.

Big Rivals—Team captains John Shattuck and David Couch display playful contempt for each other before their teams took the field for a 8-10 year old Youth League game Wednesday morning.

Bay Youth League Drops Practice Game to Kiln

Despite strong hitting, Bay Youth Leaguers lost Wednesday against Kiln Youth League 14-7. League Director Happy Mahfouz attributed the loss to weak fielding in opening practice game between 12-15 year olds.

Coach Mahfouz predicted a successful season in the making and commended his over 100 Youth Leaguers for their interest and sportsmanship.

Mike Strong, an 11-year-old playing out of his age class, pitched five innings of the game, holding the Kiln bunch to five hits. The Bay boys were leading 7-6 when Coach Mahfouz put in pitcher Gerald Choina, Choina, ordinarily a steady fast ball pitcher had a bad day, giving up several walks and numerous hits.

Coach Mahfouz said hitting was tops. Six players who got two hits in the game were Nodie Ladner, Mike Lee, Nicky Kingston, Jerry Dahl, Chuck Wagner and Randy Adams. There were several others who belted the ball for one hit.

The scheduled game with the Altar Boys from Our Lady of the Gulf Church Wednesday afternoon was called off because of a soggy field.

Fishermen from all over the States will be on hand to wet their hooks and try for some of the prizes offered.

This year there will be no registration in Hancock County, but local entrants may mail the $5 registration fee to Tom George, registrar, Mississippi Deep Sea Fishing Rodeo Inc., Gulfport, Miss. Edward Orme, honorary vice president of the rodeo said, "Any fish caught after registration in Hancock County is eligible to win a prize."

For the first time a trophy and an outboard engine will be given by Gimma Marine to the person catching the largest lemon fish. John Gimma, a fishing enthusiast who has fished in the waters of the East and in Florida said, "Neither can beat our own Gulf Coast for game fish."

There will be prizes offered for tarpon, blue fish, daily prizes for the largest fish of each species, a fish display prize, spear fishing, entrance prize, shell cracker, king mackerel, lemon fish, red snapper, kingfisher, dolphin, perch, blue gill, pan fish, black fish, flounder, largest fish, spanish mackerel, green trout, bonita, boat prize, fresh water cat fish, speckled trout, jack crevalle, red fish, smallest fish and queen fisherette.

Remember, you can fish anywhere in Hancock County, even off the sea wall and be eligible to win.

Cary Karl told us that he landed a good string of green trout at Lakeshore one day this week.

Ernest Strong and his son caught 90 speckled trout on Georgi Pauls Sunday.

Alden Mauffray, a gentleman who looks different everytime we see him, told us that he spent Sunday afternoon on the Telegraph Keys using plugs and got nothing. In despair he finally tried dead shrimp and began hauling 'em in.

Walter Miller of New Orleans,

Shoe Shine Man—Buddy Nichols, who wields a shoe shine rag on Beach Blvd., proves his worth as a fisherman. He caught these three catfish totaling 10 pounds between Gen's Landing and College Pier, using mullet for bait.
